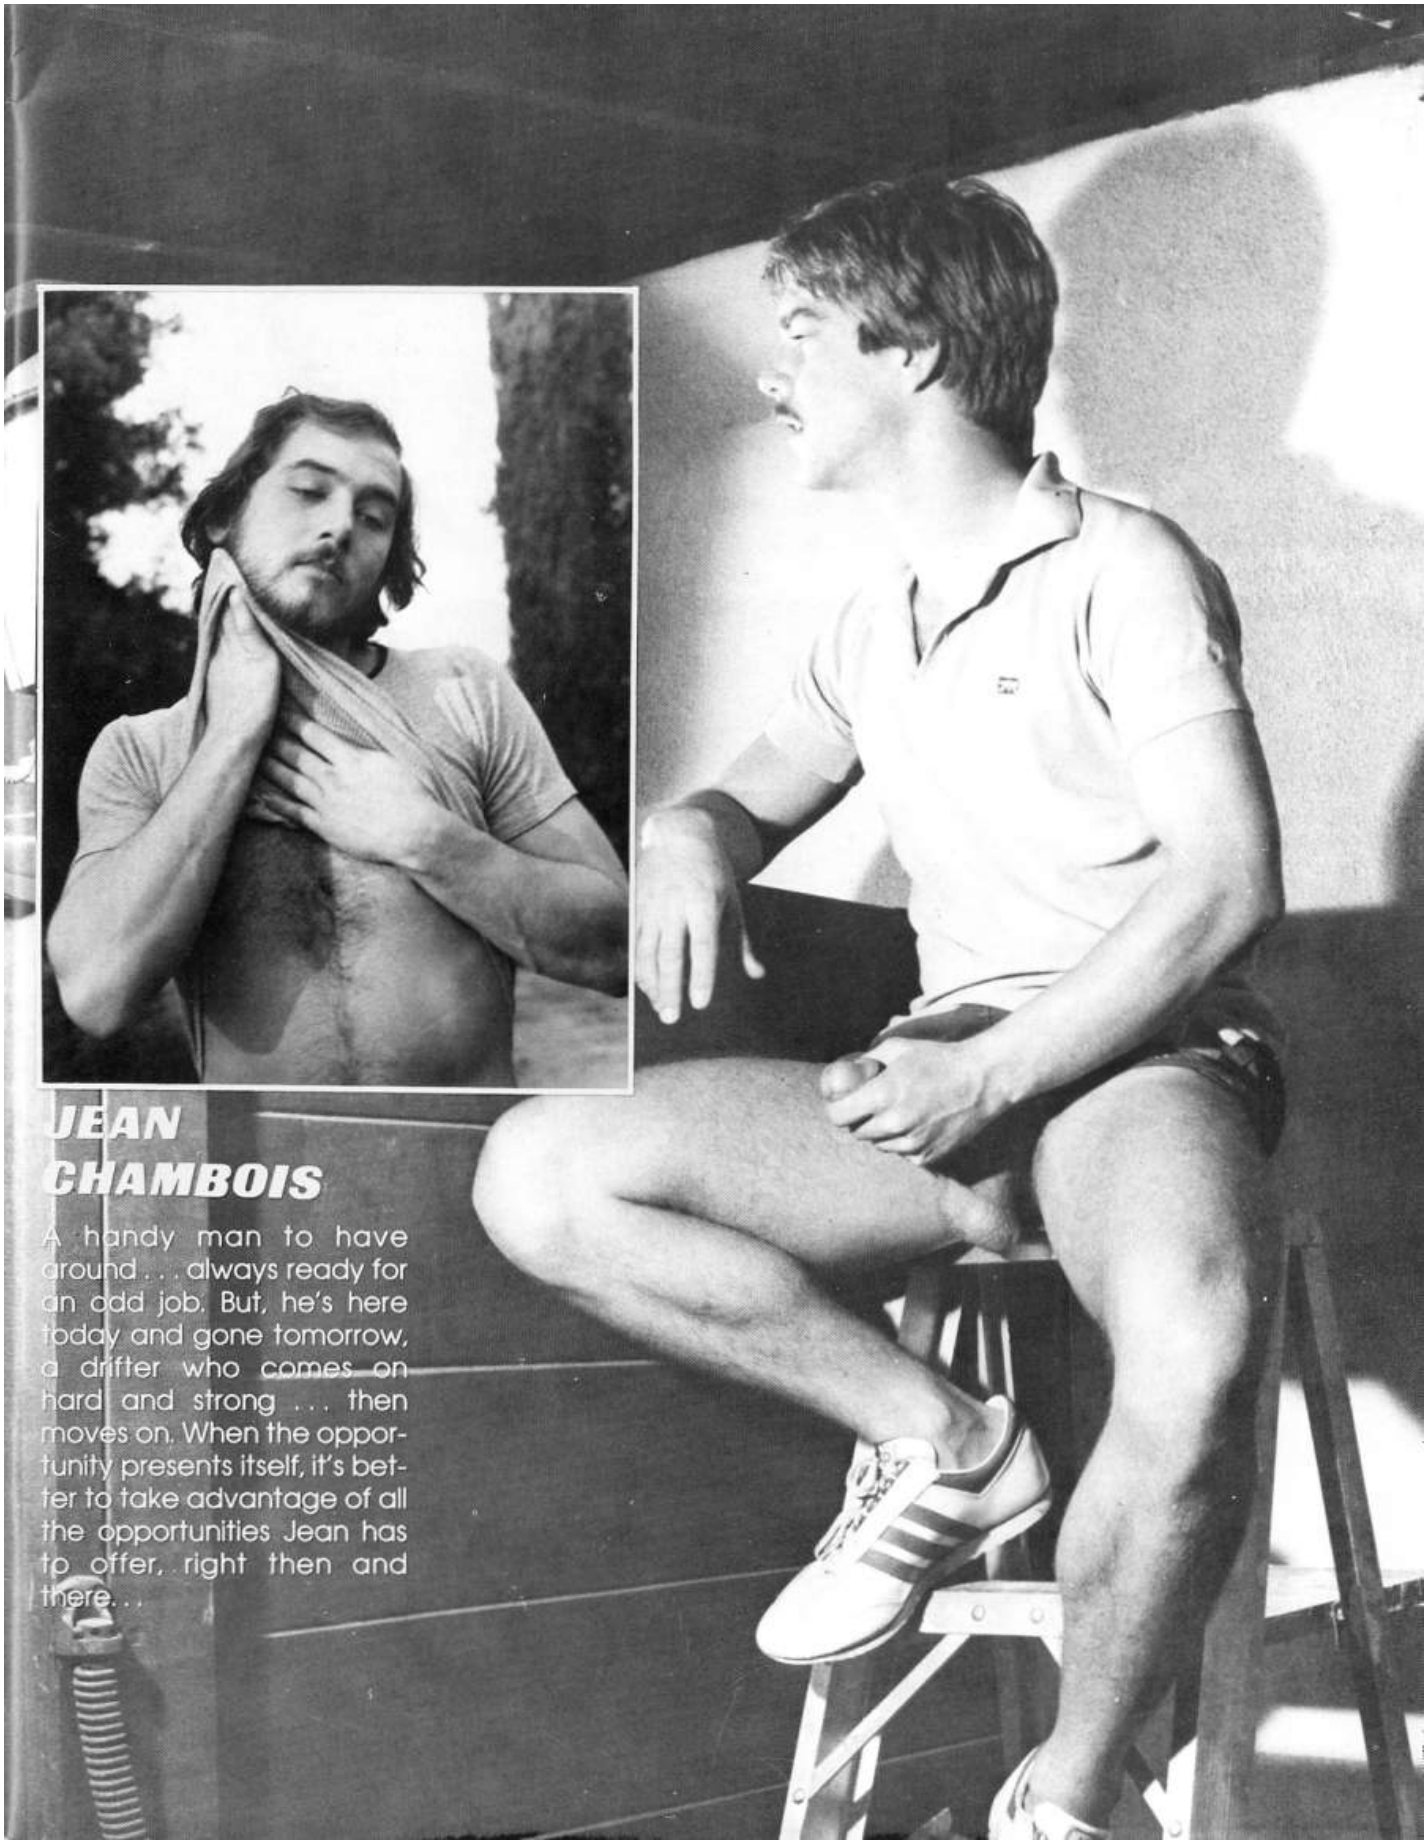
CLAY HUGHES
The boy next door . . . waiting, watching, ready for that first casual hint, that promise of something that will expand, grow into full pleasure to fill his aching need. A returned look is all he needs and there he is, willing to take full advantage of every opportunity thrust at him.
CRAFTSMAN



JEAN CHAMBOIS

A handy man to have around . . . always ready for an odd job. But, he's here today and gone tomorrow, a drifter who comes on hard and strong . . . then moves on. When the opportunity presents itself, it's better to take advantage of all the opportunities Jean has to offer, right then and there. . .
